Ms. Jane Jones, Manager of Human Resources
Oak Springs Treatment Center 3000 Oak Springs Dr.
Austin, TX 78702-2531

Dear Ms. Jones:

I am responding to your advertisement for a Case Worker in the November 2019 issue of the DiNitto Center’s Spotlight. I am confident that my education and counseling experience with individuals who have substance abuse disorders make me an excellent candidate for this job.

While in college, I completed an internship at South Austin Hospital and participated in a multi-disciplinary team that guided patients through a successful transition from the hospital setting to outpatient treatment centers. My responsibilities included aiding in psychosocial evaluations and assessments and making referrals to local law enforcement officials, psychiatric facilities, and chemical dependency outpatient and support groups.

I have applied for my licensing exam and am awaiting my test date. I am bilingual in English and Spanish and have worked with Spanish-speaking populations.

The successful programs of the Oak Springs Treatment Center are familiar to me, and I aspire to work for a facility with your excellent reputation. I would welcome the opportunity to interview with you. I have enclosed a resume that provides the details of my education and experience. I can be reached by telephone at (512) 345-1234 or email at Ssmith@yahoo.com. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Sarah Smith
Notable strategies from this sample:

- Prepare a letterhead for your cover letter that matches your resume. This should include your name, address, email address, and phone number.
- When a posting does not provide details about an addressee (the person who will receive your letter), you must contact the organization and find out. Use “dear” or a similar formal opener. Include the person’s name, title, and office address.
- Indicate how you found the advertised position.
- Conclude your opening paragraph with a quick summary of the experiences you will discuss in more detail going forward in the letter. Emphasize the relevance of this experience to the job position or organization.
- Call attention to specific elements of your background—education, experience, leadership—that are relevant to the position. Use verbs that highlight accomplishments and results. For example, “completed,” “guided.”
- Mention any transferable skills you have that may fit the job (see our worksheet with examples of great transferable skills!)
- Conclude with a statement that acknowledges something that excites you about the position or organization. You can even include specific information you have found after researching the position, or reading the organization’s website (tip: most organizations have either a “mission statement” or a description of their values.)
- Provide space for a signature, which you can create using your cell phone, a tablet, or even an online program (Google “create digital signature”—there are several free programs that let you easily create and download a signature of your name.) This is an image file that you can keep somewhere on your computer for easy access and format into your letters.
